RESPIRONICS®

Children's Medical Ventures offers a complete line of specialty pacifiers designed for each stage of a baby's growth. The American Academy of Pediatrics recommends that babies up to one year of age use a pacifier while sleeping to reduce the risk of SIDS. Research has also shown that non-nutritive sucking has many benefits for preterm infants including a shorter hospital stay and better success at breastfeeding and bottle feeding.

A meta-analysis published in late 2005 by the American Academy of Pediatrics (AAP) shows that infants who use a pacifier are at decreased risk for SIDS. Based on these findings, the AAP recommends that babies up to one year of age suck on a pacifier during all sleep periods. Research has also shown that non-nutritive sucking has many benefits for preterm infants including a shorter hospital stay and better success at breast and bottle feeding. The AAP recommends that nursing babies begin using a pacifier once the baby is nursing successfully, usually around one month of age.

All Children's Medical Ventures pacifiers are LATEX FREE!

Parents may purchase Soothies at major retail outlets or by calling 888-SOOTHIE or at childmed.com.

Wee Thumbie

For Babies <30 Weeks Gestation

The Wee Thumbie is for hospital use only.

The Wee Thumbie is the first pacifier designed specifically for use by very low birthweight babies. Modeled after the size and shape of the preemie thumb, this pacifier facilitates the important sucking behaviors normally learned in utero. Its uniquely-shaped nipple helps to keep the pacifier in the baby's mouth and its smaller-sized perioral guard keeps the pacifier centered and allows space for oral and nasal tubing. Once the baby is breast or bottle feeding, he or she should transition to the Wee Soothie or Soothie pacifier.

Wee Soothie

For Babies 30-34 Weeks Gestation

The Wee Soothie is for hospital use only.

The Wee Soothie is designed to provide a superior fit for growing preemies or smaller term babies for use during their hospital stay. The notched area allows space for tubing from CPAP, mechanical ventilation or tube feeding. Its one-piece construction meets stringent American Academy of Pediatrics guidelines. Most babies will transition to the Soothie once they are successfully breast or bottle feeding. Available in natural or vanilla scent.

NICU Soothie

For Babies >34 Weeks Gestation

The NICU Soothie is for hospital use only.

The Soothie is a premium pacifier designed for newborns and babies without teeth who are successfully bottle or breastfeeding. The notched area allows space for tubing from CPAP, mechanical ventilation or tube feeding. Its one-piece construction adheres to the American Academy of Pediatrics guidelines. Baby should be transitioned to the Soothie prior to discharge. Available in natural or vanilla scent.

Soothie

For Babies Without Teeth

The Soothie is a premium pacifier designed for newborns and babies without teeth who are successfully bottle or breastfeeding. Its one-piece construction adheres to the American Academy of Pediatrics guidelines. Available in natural or vanilla scent. Soothie pacifiers are also available in canisters of 25 for hospital or home.

Super Soothie

For Babies With Teeth

The Super Soothie is a premium pacifier designed for babies with teeth. Its one-piece construction adheres to the American Academy of Pediatrics guidelines. Super Soothie pacifiers are also available in canisters of 24 for hospital or home.

WubbaNub

Pacifier With Plush Toy For Babies Without Teeth

WubbaNubs are specially designed to keep the Soothie pacifier conveniently placed without the use of a pacifier clip or cord. The vibrantly colored soft, plush toy gives the baby something to grasp and helps to bring a baby's hands to midline. Available designs: Dog, Duck, Frog or Horse.
